Directors of Bedford County Meet and by a Majority of 48 Select

VICTOR E. P. BARKMAN

As the Head of the Educational System of the County—One Candidate Withdraw.

In response to the published call, the School Directors of the county met at the Court House on Tuesday of this week to elect a Superintendent of schools for the ensuing three years.

The meeting was called to order by Superintendent Barkman, after which an organization was effected by the unanimous selection of William Thompson of Saxton, editor of the Herald, as President; Dr. I. C. Stayer of Woodbury, Secretary, and Clayton Smith of Colerain Township and Jacob C. Stoler of Saxton, as tellers.

SUPERINTENDENT BARKMAN

The chair having declared nominations in order, the names of Victor E. P. Barkman of Bedford, H. H. Brumbaugh of Broad Top Township and Lloyd H. Hinkle of Pleasantville were presented.

In a comprehensive address Prof. Brumbaugh withdrew his name, thanking his friends for their kindly interest. Dr. W. F. Buford, a member of the Bedford Board, seconded the nomination of Prof. Barkman, calling attention to the duty and responsibility resting upon the assembly.

The nominations having been closed by motion duly carried, a ballot was taken, which resulted in 126 votes for Superintendent Barkman and 78 for Professor Hinkle.

Superintendent Barkman, having received a majority of all votes cast, was declared elected by Chairman Thompson.

The vote having been announced the re-elected County Superintendent entered the room, from which the candidates had retired during the balloting, in response to loud calls for "Barkman" and in a brief address thanked the directors for his election and pledged his best efforts for the advancement of the schools of the county. He believes that the standard of the schools can only be raised by raising the standard of the teachers and declared to be his intention to continue to raise the teachers' standard as he had done during the past three years.

Professor Barkman has served as Superintendent of the schools of the county for three years, and during that time has done much for the advancement of the schools, and we feel assured that, the experience of the past three years, added to the excellent qualifications he possesses, will enable him to do more effective work during the term upon which he now enters.

BETTER FRUIT FOR COUNTY

Efforts of Special Agent Meeting With Success—Grafts Distributed.

With the exception of a few applications, we have been able to fill requests for grafting stock just as sent in. We finally were cleaned out of White Pippin, Cleever Red and Rome Beauty. The call for grafts was so much larger than we had any idea it would be and that it required some hustling to get the stock together, as it was late, orchards had been largely trimmed, and those orchardists who had promised us stock had been distributing it heavily to friends who came to their orchards to get it.

The stock for free distribution was furnished by the following men, all of whom I wish publicly to express my hearty appreciation of their prompt and liberal response to this public demand, viz.: C. B. Culpe, Schellsburg, A. A. Hyde and E. Hyde, Mann's Choice, Rt. 1; A. C. Richards, Schellsburg, Rt. 1; J. H. Warmuth, Cumberland Valley.

The stock of the White Pippin was furnished by the Bureau of Plant Industry, a very limited supply. Part of the stock of the Cleever Red was cut from the original tree on the farm of Charles C. Pessy, near Point; the balance was furnished by Mr. Richards from trees grafted some years ago.

Arrangements will be made without delay for a much larger supply of grafting stock next year for free distribution. It has been thought wise, with a view to establishing a reputation for this district, to confine the distribution to the apples which are great market apples, which are sure now and always to bring a fine price because of their superb quality and appearance, viz.: Grimes Golden, Stayman Winesap, Jonathan, Rome Beauty, Cleever Red, White Pippin. All these apples are heavy yielders, under our local conditions, and are at their best as to quality.

In addition to this there will be a free distribution next spring of grafting stock of the following early winter or late fall varieties, all of which bring top notch prices on the market because of quality, appearance and the time at which they get into the market, viz.: Gravenstein, Jet-forties, Maiden Blush, Wealthy.

During the summer and fall information will be collected as to the conditions under which these heavy yielding apples do their best so that next spring we will be able to advise which are likely to succeed in any locality.

I have already opened a book for the distribution of grafting stock next spring. In this book I will be glad to enter requests at any time, and those requests will receive first attention next spring.

Thursday of last week the new barn of A. A. Diehl of Colerain Township was raised by neighbors and friends, under the direction of Dibert Brothers, the contractors. The structure is 45 x 70 feet. HOT PAN OR PLATE LIFTER

The danger of burning the hand or arm removing hot plates or pans from ovens can be obviated by the fashioning of a simple device. Two loops of wire are made, one a little longer than the other. One of the loops is fixed firmly in an 18-in. wooden handle, and the other is attached to the handle, but allowed to swing free. The method of operation is to engage one side of the pan with the fixed loop and the swinging loop will swing under the other side. The pan can be lifted without the hands coming in contact with it or with the oven.—From Popular Mechanics Magazine.

In the Wake of the Measles

The little son of Mrs. O. B. Palmer, Little Rock, Ark., had the measles. The result was a severe cough which grew worse and he could not sleep. She says: "One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound completely cured him and he has never been bothered since." Croup, whooping cough, measles cough all yield to Foley's Honey and Tar compound. The genuine is in the yellow package always. Refuse substitutes. Ed. D. Heckerman.

ED. D. HECKERMAN'S UNUSUAL OFFER

Sells Dr. Howard's Specific at Half-Price and Guarantees a Cure.

"It isn't often that we have faith enough in the medicine put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure," said Ed. D. Heckerman to a Gazette man who dropped into his store, "but I am glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that basis."

The Dr. Howard Company in order to get a quick introductory sale, authorizes me to sell their regular fifty cent bottles at half-price, 25 cents and, although I have sold a lot of it, and have guaranteed every package, not one has been brought back as unsatisfactory.

"I am still selling the specific at half-price, altho I cannot tell how long I shall be able to do so, and anyone who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion or a general played-out condition, ought to take advantage of this chance. You can tell your readers that if they are not satisfied with the specific that they can come right back to my store and I will cheerfully refund their money."

EXAMINE TREES BEFORE PLANTING

Nursery Stock Should Be Inspected for Infestation and Infestation.

"It is very important for every person planting a tree to know the difference between a good tree and a bad tree, and to be able to recognize one that is infested with insects or infected with diseases," says Prof. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist of Pennsylvania. He further declares that it is as unwise and unprofitable to attempt to obtain satisfactory results by planting a poor, sickly, or infested tree, as it would be for a live-stock man to attempt to obtain good results in his business by relying upon only stunted, inferior and sickly live stock. It is readily to be seen that the latter would fail if he did not make for the basis of his operations the selection of the best, based upon a knowledge of what constitutes quality and inferiority.

This season, when so many persons are planting trees, is the proper time to examine the trees before they are finally placed in the ground. In fact, as soon as they come from the nursery, they should be opened and examined, first for San Jose scale, and then for other pests. If the scale is present it will generally be found on parts of the bark that are more or less blotched with red or brown. Near the center of such blotches little black specks are to be found not larger than a period in this print, but sure to prove deadly to the tree if they have not been killed by fumigation. If the trees have been properly fumigated at the nursery, there is no danger of infestation from these sources. If the trees are found to be infested with scale, it is best to dip them into a solution of lime-sulphur, such as is made and used for spraying for this pest, but avoid dipping the roots in the solution; or it is well to wash the bark above the roots with any kind of a brush dipped in the solution, and set the trees in the regular manner, and spray them with the solution.

Trees should, also, be examined for webs containing insects and their eggs, and these should be destroyed at once. The roots of peach and plum trees should be examined for borers, and if any gum is attached to them, look at the place from which it oozes and see if a borer is present, and remove it with a knife blade.

The most important examination of trees before planting is for the disease commonly known as crown gall, root gall, hairy root, etc. The full nature of this disease is not known. It is known that it is infectious, being carried in certain ways from plant to plant, and it is also known that when the gall encircles the tree near the ground, or top of root, stunts its growth and causes the tree always to remain stunted and inferior. It is possible that the effects of crown gall are not always serious, but they are very liable to be extremely so, and for this reason no one is justified in planting trees infected with this disease. We have recently seen large shipments of trees nearly all of which were badly infected with this disease which is so liable to inflict permanent injury to the tree. It is believed by the best authorities on the subject that the nurserymen who ship trees thus infected are doing an injustice to their customers, as well as to themselves.

Certainly the person who wishes to be sure of establishing a good, healthy, vigorous orchard will not be willing to depend upon trees infected with crown gall by so doing.

Crown gall is indicated by the knots on the roots, from which fine bunches of very fine hairy roots appear, and it is also sometimes shown by the fine bunches of such roots, even though the knots may not be present. If such galls showing infection are on roots away from the crown they may not prove at all serious, but as sure as the woody galls encircle the tree they will prevent the ready flow of sap from the roots to the trunk and branches, as well as the return of the sap which is essential for the proper thrift of the tree.

It is best for purchasers to have it stipulated in writing at the time the order is given that all trees are to be sound and healthy, and free from infestation and infection. Of course, such conditions are supposed to be implied with every order, but it is difficult to prove that they are understood. When such conditions are expressed in writing, and damaged, infested or diseased trees are received, the purchaser has a definite basis upon which he can refuse to accept them. Even though the conditions are not in writing, the purchaser should heel the trees into damp soil, and keep the roots damp, and consequently keep the trees alive, and at once enter into communication with the grower or shipper.

It should be remembered that crown gall is one of the diseases of trees against which there is a specific law in the State of Pennsylvania. The law provides that it is the duty of the Secretary of Agriculture or his agents to destroy trees that are found to be infested with dangerous insects, and infected with serious diseases. However, the purchaser should acquaint himself with the few serious pests of nursery stock, and reject all trees containing them, according to the nature and requirements of the pest.

What Tom L. Johnson Did for Cleveland

Under Mayor Johnson Cleveland became the one city in America to follow and in some respects to excel Europe in farm colonies for juvenile delinquents, adult criminals, the poor and the tuberculous. The 2,300 acres of these colonies, located several miles from the city, attracted widespread attention.

Gambling houses and graft in the police department were abolished as perhaps in no other large city in the country; and arrests for minor offenses were wonderfully reduced without increase of lawlessness or of serious crime. No city in the country became so free from graft in the purchase of supplies and the making of contracts as did Cleveland under Mayor Johnson.

The city has also attracted the attention of all experts as the great example of success in municipal reduction of garbage to fertilizers and oils, on a paying basis.

Mr. Johnson hoped, through his own power of leadership, to jump at once to the most advanced methods of successful administration. In other words, he proposed to prepare the way for municipal ownership of street railways and lighting, by showing that the only municipal industry owned by the city at the beginning of his nine years of administration, the supply of water, could be run on the best business and scientific principles. Even in the heat of campaigns and with the coming into power a year ago of a hostile administration, no one has challenged the success of the Mayor's efforts in this respect. As the one who was called upon to execute the work, the writer can bear the fullest tribute to the Mayor's absolute sincerity of purpose and disinterestedness in it all.

Few realized the intensity and duration of the struggle which this required of the Mayor. To be maligned by one's opponents may be expected; to be misunderstood by many of one's own friends, as was the Mayor in this and other fights, is among the greatest disappointments of life. Yet he never flinched, for the cause was dear to him. When the fight was at its thickest, and the majority of his party in the Council turned against him because of his efforts for the merit system, he remarked with much feeling, "I believe it is good politics; but anyway it is decent."

His support of efficiency in the water department rendered possible the introduction of universal metering and other forms of waste detection, which reduced the per capita consumption of water in Cleveland including leakage and waste, from 165 gallons per day per capita to 90 gallons, in a city where 50 gallons is used through meters for business purposes.—From "Tom L. Johnson's Achievements as Mayor of Cleveland," by Edward W. Bemis, in the American Review of Reviews for May.

Foley Kidney Pills take hold of your system and help you to rid yourself of your dragging backache, dull headache, nervousness, impaired eyesight and of all the ills resulting from the impaired action of your kidneys and bladder. Remember it is Foley Kidney Pills that do this. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Breaking the News Gently
The sands of the old year were running low. Soon 1910 would be numbered with the past.
In an outlying police station a solitary deskman, his feet on a table and his head thrown back, was keeping lonely vigil. The insistent bur-r-r-ring of the telephone half aroused him to the realities of life. When the receiver had been lifted from its hook, a gruff voice at the other end of the line demanded:
"Is this May 19-11?"
"Gosh, no!" answered the sleepy deskman. "This is only New Year's eve."

POULTRY NOTES

BY C. M. BARNITZ

RIVERSIDE PA.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED

[These articles and illustrations must not be reprinted without special permission.]

IT'S TIME TO KICK.

Do you kick? What at? At buying eggs by the dozen, that old hoopskirt fad that should have been relegated to the scrap pile long ago.

You lose much on eggs by the dozen and can only get a square deal by weight. Note by the following list the difference in weight of a dozen eggs from various breeds:

Light Brahma, twenty-eight ounces; Black Minorca, twenty-seven ounces; Barred Rock, twenty-six ounces; Black Langshan, twenty-six ounces; White Wyandotte, twenty-four ounces; Buff Cochin, twenty-four ounces; S. C. White Leghorn, twenty-three ounces; S. C. Brown Leghorn, twenty-two ounces; Hamburg, twenty-one ounces.

You pay the same for twelve Hamburg eggs weighing twenty-one ounces as for twelve Brahmas weighing twenty-eight ounces.

A dozen Hamburg pullet eggs weighing seventeen ounces are on a par with a dozen Minorca hens' eggs that weigh twenty-seven ounces.

You get better by pound and milk by quart, but for eggs there is no standard—always is just eggs—and any little thing counts. But you are not the only loser.

The man that produces big eggs loses.

They cost more to produce than small ones and yet must be sold by the dozen for the same money.

To lay in November Brahmas must be hatched in March; Rocks, Dottes and Reds in April; White Leghorns and Hamburgs in May, June or July.

Thus Brahmas that lay the heaviest eggs must be fed from two to four months longer than Hamburgs before they lay as pullets, but their eggs sell the same.

A Brahma eats 100 pounds of grain a year, Rocks ninety pounds, Leghorns or Hamburgs sixty pounds, yet their eggs sell the same.

SHOCKED THE GUARD.

A Canadian Railway Official Who Did Not Appreciate Kilts.

Many years ago a well known Scotch nobleman went out to one of our smaller dependencies to take up an official position under the governor.

He was a colonel of volunteers at home, and consequently he took out his gorgeous kilt uniform with him to wear on those occasions on which etiquette demanded such an attire.

The necessity for donning his kilt arose soon after he arrived in the colony, and attired in all his glory he took the train from the country station near to which he chanced to be residing at the time to the town where his distinguished presence was required.

At one of the stopping places along the route the guard to whom kilts were an absolutely unknown article of attire and who apparently, when he looked in at the carriage window and saw the gallant colonel seated therein, imagined that that gentleman had dispensed with his nether garments on account of the heat, said, "We are getting near town, sir."

At the next station he came again, and seeing the colonel in exactly the same costume, he exclaimed excitedly: "Excuse me, sir, but I must insist on your dressing yourself at once. We shall arrive at the town station in five minutes!"—London Tit-Bits.

LUCK AT MONTE CARLO.

A Fly Which Cost the Gambling Room a Small Fortune.

About Jan. 25, 1904, a curious thing happened at Monte Carlo. The superstition of gamblers is well recognized, but it is seldom that their reliance upon omens brings them such luck as was the case on the above date. At what is known as the "suicide" table in the Monte Carlo gambling rooms the following remarkable incident occurred:

A fly alighted on No. 13 on the roulette table at the time when the players had suffered a persistent run of hard luck. The superstitious gamblers exchanged covert glances and searched their pockets for money with which to stake. In a few moments the "middle dozen"—that is to say, the Nos. 13 to 24—were literally covered with stakes. Then an elderly gambler arose and piled napoleons round the square on which the fly had alighted, thus backing the numbers from 10 to 17. Less confident players staked smaller amounts on the "transversales."

The ivory marble was sent spinning round the roulette wheel. There was a moment of suspense and then the croupier announced the winning number—13. But what is far more extraordinary the same number came up three times in succession.

That fly cost the casino over $25,000.

What an Account Book Does.

A bank book with check book and stubs is the easiest way of keeping a cash account, and then you have the bank to prove your account for you. The cash register is a means of keeping accounts of receipts and payments combined with a "bell punch" upon honesty. System is an indispensable requisite of successful business; honesty and ability will not succeed without it. The first step in this direction on the part of youth is keeping a personal cash account. The orderly setting down of receipts and expenditures confronting oneself with what has been expended and for what purpose carries a continual moral, a warning if need be, and a lesson in responsibility. The balance, the proof and the test bring home the power and responsibility of receiving and spending.—A. Barton Hepburn in Leslie's.

The Sympathetic Watch.

The sympathetic watch is all very well, writes a correspondent, but there are many who find that their watches can never be relied upon to behave regularly. Generally the wearer is found to be of a very nervous disposition, and it certainly looks as if this communicated itself to the watch. One inherited by the writer, which had kept good time for years, immediately developed erratic tendencies when worn by him and has never got out of them. Only once for a brief space did a watch go regularly with him. It was a Swiss one, which had varied when worn in England, but kept accurate time on a Swiss holiday. And the question was whether it was the wearer's temporarily braced nerves or the effect of its native air on the watch that did the trick.—London Chronicle.

REMOVING A SNAGGED FISHHOOK.

A device for unhooking a snagged fishhook can be made of the taper end of an old curtain spring and a stick or old fishing pole. A part of the coil is straightened out and a ring bent on the end, large enough to pass over the sinkers. The ring is left open so it can be placed over the line at any point. The remaining coil of the spring is slipped on the end of the stick and fastened with screws or staples. The illustration shows how the device is applied to the fishhook.—From Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Lesson VI.—Second Quarter, For May 7, 1911.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Chron. xxvi, 8-21.

Memory Verses, 19, 20—Golden Text, Prov. xvi, 18—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

As we consider the lives of these Kings of Judah we must remember that the throne at Jerusalem is called the throne of the Lord, and those who reigned there were kings for the Lord their God (I Chron. xxix, 23; II Chron. ix, 8). There were eight kings of whom it is written that they "did right in the sight of the Lord," and this Uzziah, or Azariah, was one of the eight (verse 4; II Kings xv, 1-3). But they only did right in some measure, some more, some less, and all failed in many things. The time is still future when the twelve tribes shall be one kingdom and a king sitting on the throne of David at Jerusalem who shall reign in righteousness, bringing peace, quietness and assurance to all His people and to all the world (Ezek. xxxvii, 21, 22; Isa. xxxiii, 1, 17).

But it shall be, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it. "They shall call Jerusalem the throne of the Lord, and all the nations shall be gathered unto it, to the name of the Lord, to Jerusalem" (Jer. iii, 17). At that day it shall be said "The King of Israel, even Jehoyah, is in the midst of thee; thou shalt not see evil any more" (Zeph. iii, 15). "And Jehovah shall be king over all the earth" (Zech. xiv, 9). In those days the kingdom and nation that will not serve Israel shall perish and be utterly wasted (Isa. lx, 12). Although Uzziah reigned fifty-two years, his whole story is found in this one-lesson chapter, and in the first seven verses of II Kings xv. In his days Isaiah and Amos were the prophets, the Lord's messengers (Isa. i, 1; Amos i, 1), full of rebuke for sin, but also of prediction of a glorious future for Israel when she shall receive her Messiah. Every good king should turn our thoughts to the Son of God, the King of Israel (John i, 49), and their failures set Him forth more brightly as the one who will never fail nor be discouraged.

Uzziah seems to have been greatly helped by a prophet named Zechariah, who had visions of God (verse 5)—not the one who wrote "the book bearing his name, for he lived after the captivity, nor the one of II Chron. xxiv, 20, 21, who was stoned to death for his faithfulness. It is a great thing to see God, and this we can do in Jesus Christ, who said "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father" (John xiv, 9). We can by the Spirit behold the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ (II Cor. iv, 6), and thus we shall be enabled to help others to see Him, too, and know Him. While this prophet helped him he sought the Lord, and God made him to prosper (verse 5).

He seems to have been prospered through most of his reign. God helped him against his enemies, other nations brought gifts to him, and his name spread abroad (verses 7, 8). Thus God honors those who honor Him. It was so during part of the reign of Solomon when the queen of Sheba and all kings of the earth sought him and brought him gifts (II Chron. ix, 8, 9, 22-24). So it shall be in an unprecedented degree when Jesus Christ shall be King in Jerusalem. Then shall all nations, like the wise men from the east, bring their treasures unto Him (Isa. lx, 9-11).

Uzziah was so greatly blessed that he became self sufficient, strong in himself instead of in the Lord, and then he fell. He presumed to take upon him the office of a priest and to burn incense in the house of God, and the Lord smote him with leprosy, and he became a leper unto the day of his death and had to live in a separate house. The only King of Israel who will be a priest upon his throne will be the man whose name is the Branch (Zech. vi, 12, 13). He will be a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek, who was both priest and king (Gen. xiv, 18; Ps. ex, 4; Heb. vii, 1, 17).

If we are redeemed we are kings and priests unto God and shall reign with Christ when He reigns (Rev. i, 6; v, 9, 10). Back of this sin of Uzziah is not difficult to see the great adversary who said "I will be like the Most High" and who said to Eve, "Ye shall be as gods" (Isa. xiv, 14; Gen. iii, 5). Humility, not pride, is the characteristic of a true child of God, realizing that we are not sufficient of ourselves, but our sufficiency is of God (II Cor. iii, 5). The only way for us is to be "strong in the Lord and in the power of His might," having no confidence in ourselves, for in us—that is, in our flesh—dwelleth no good thing (Eph. vi, 10; Phil. iii, 3; Rom. vii, 18). We have a great High Priest who is touched with a feeling of our infirmities and who is able to save to the uttermost all of those who come unto God by Him.

Let us rejoice in Him and serve Him with all humility, remembering to do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with our God. All self righteousness, self sufficiency, pride and ambition to be somebody or something apart from Jesus Christ we must shun as we would the devil himself.

It is written of Uzziah that "as long as he sought the Lord, God made him to prosper" (verse 5). This is in accord with Josh. i, 7, 8; Ps. i, 1-3. True seeking is always according to Jer. xxxix, 11, and the exhortations thereto are very plain in Isa. lv, 6; Zeph. ii, 8. Consider Ezekiel in II Chron. xxxi, 20, 21, and also see Ezra vii, 10.

"CLEAN-UP DAY"

Before another issue of The Gazette shall have reached its readers Bedford will have a "Clean-up Day" and we hope that before that specified eleventh day of May arrives the shovel and the hoe, the paint brush and the white-wash brush, the rake and the spade—and the wheelbarrow, will have done such effective work that the teams to be furnished by the Board of Trade will have little to haul and that fences and gardens, houses and lawns will present such an appearance as will justify the appellation "Bedford Beautiful."

LOCAL ROBBERIES

A moment's reflection over the numerous robberies that have been committed in and about Bedford during the past few months will not lead but drive one to the conclusion that something should be done to rid the community of the perpetrators.

Strange as it may seem in a majority of cases something has been left behind that would have given the scent that would have enabled blood hounds to re-trace the tracks of the thieves to their lair; in the last instance, the robbery of the Metropolitan Clothing Store, the object being an old hat.

It is a wonder that a mound of new-made earth running east and west does not already mark the resting place of some one caught in the act of robbing. Is the getting of blood hounds a joke or a necessity? What other course is to be suggested?

Ministerium Meeting

The Reformed Ministerium of Bedford County met in Bedford, on Monday, May 1, at 1:30 o'clock in the Sunday School room of St. John's Reformed Church, with the following members present: Reverends J. A. Eyer, C. Gumbert, M. A. Kieffer, B. A. G. Hermann, J. W. Zehring and J. C. Knable.

It was decided to omit June meeting on account of the meeting of the Classis at that time. The July meeting will be held July 4 at Bedford Springs. All parties concerned will meet at St. John's Church at 10:30 a. m. and be taken by hack to the Springs.

The following program was then made use of and very acceptably rendered. Paper by Rev. E. A. G. Hermann, on "The Meaning of the Abundant Life," which showed very deep thought and care in its production, and was full of spiritual uplift for all present, and was very much appreciated. Rev. J. W. Zehring then read a sermon on John 10: 2, "I am the door of the sheep," which was full of intense meaning for all earnest souls who are striving to lead others into the fold. C. Knable, Sec.

GREEN GRAPES AND DIAMONDS

A Novel Plan, but It Does Not Work
By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The unset diamonds rippled through Mr. Freer's fingers in a stream of purple and fire. He gathered them into a little heap, scraped them up and poured them into a small chamois leather bag.

"Be sure to declare these, Eleanor. It will be cheaper in the end. Telephone me at the office and I will send a check down to the customs immediately. You better let me take them over tomorrow. You are rather careless, my dear."

"No, indeed, John Freer! I shall carry them back to New York myself, and I will show you that, although I may sometimes be careless in little things, when there is really something worth while to be taken care of I shall not fail. As for declaring them, the duty will be frightful. They are worth $10,000, you said."

"All of that, and the duty will bring up the cost, but I can afford to pay it. The tariff afforded me protection when I was a manufacturer. Certainly I would not dream of cheating in the matter," said Freer gravely. "I'll take care of the diamonds until I sail tomorrow. Then you may take care of them, but I warn you against trying to smuggle them in. I shall meet you at the boat on your arrival and settle the matter at once."

"Very well, dear," said Mrs. Freer meekly, yet with a sparkle in her eye which did not escape her quiet, indulgent husband. "Now, as this is your last night in Paris shall we not try the opera?"

"With pleasure. I'm going out now, but I'll be in before dinner. Will you have Armand pack my things? I must catch that Cherbourg express without fail if I'm to make my boat in the morning." Mr. Freer kissed his wife lightly and left the room and later the hotel.

Mrs. Freer looked thoughtfully at her rings as her husband left the room, and a little smile curved her lips at the daring thought that entered her pretty head. After an unusually long silence she tossed a kiss toward the silver framed photograph of her husband and spoke aloud:

"With all due respect to your judgment, dear John! Ugh! Fancy paying all that duty besides Biffan's bill for setting the stones in my platinum chain! No, sir! With which expressive and mysterious remark she danced out of the room.

The next morning found her alone in Paris, while her husband was probably homeward bound across the Atlantic. He had been summoned to New York by important business matters, and Eleanor, with her shopping half done, had decided to remain and finish it, going home by the boat on which they had engaged passage for the return trip.

Now that she was alone she poured the stones through her slender fingers, delighting in their sparkle and brilliancy and the purity of their color. Then she hid them in her bosom and went forth to attend to her neglected shopping.

Homeward bound on the Leonore, Mrs. Freer wore a proud and triumphant smile that would have aroused her husband's suspicions had he seen it. While little groups of the women mourned over the duties that would have to be paid on their purchases, Eleanor Freer smiled contentedly and said she intended to declare every gown she had bought.

When the port of New York was made at last Mrs. Freer was among those who were first on deck, becomingly gowned, with quite a marvellous little hat trimmed with green war grapes on her lovely hair.

Her first disappointment came when she did not discern her devoted husband on the pier, and afterward she was conscious of a distinct feeling of relief. It was quite as well, she calculated, if John should not appear for an hour or so.

As Eleanor waited patiently for her trunk to be examined a fellow voyager approached her with a worried look.

"Dear Mrs. Freer," she whispered, "I'm so nervous I don't know what to do. Did you ever smuggle anything through?"

Mrs. Freer looked properly shocked. "Is it quite the right thing to do?" she asked virtuously.

"Oh, bother!" said Mrs. Foster impatiently. "The government is rich enough without taking toll of my poor little purchases. I'm wondering—look at that—is there anything unusual about it?" She held forth a silk umbrella with a knob handle of silver, plain and practical looking.

"No. Why? You haven't—really?" Mrs. Freer's eyebrows went up in surprise.

The other nodded emphatically. "I had it made to order," she whispered. "The stick is larger than is ordinary and hollow—a string of pearls for Dorothy. The handle screws on. The cleverest artisan in the Rue de l'Alaie made it for me, and I bribed him to secrecy. The whole thing, umbrella, pearls and bribe, cost—guess how many thousand francs."

"I couldn't," declared Mrs. Freer breathlessly.

Mrs. Foster whispered in her ear, and the other smiled incredulously. "Why, that must equal the amount of the duty on your pearls," she hazarded.

"My dear, it's more than the duty would be, and so I've simply got to get them through. Ah, it is my turn now!" She hastened away to give up the key to her trunks, and Eleanor heard her shrill treble rising in expostulation against the quick decisive tones of the customs official.

And after awhile the official consulted a notebook and read something therefrom to Mrs. Foster. With a bitter cry she gave up her umbrella, and with a quick turn of his wrist the official compelled that carefully manufactured article to disgorge the pearls.

After the confusion surrounding this incident had died away Mrs. Freer found herself growing quite nervous, as the other passengers in the "F" section quickly made their declarations and were promptly released. At last she alone was left, and she came reluctantly forward with her keys.

One by one the trunks were thrown open and her dainty belongings tossed about for inspection. Memorandum was made of her dutiable articles and the trunks closed. Then her hand luggage was gone over carefully without result.

At last the official straightened himself and looked her calmly in the eye. "That is all you have to declare, madam?" he asked.

"I have given you my keys—you see what is there," returned Mrs. Freer haughtily.

"How about the diamonds?" he asked unpleasantly.

"Diamonds?" gasped Mrs. Freer. He nodded and consulted the same notebook that had been the undoing of little Mrs. Foster.

"Our agents report that you purchased diamonds to the value of $10,000 when you were in Paris," he announced. "Where are they?"

"This is an outrage," stammered Eleanor tearfully.

"It is the law, madam," he corrected sternly, and then, "I trust you will not make a personal search necessary."

Mrs. Freer hesitated, and then pride came to her aid. To admit that she had tried to smuggle diamonds through the customs was too mortifying to endure. She would face it out. They would never guess where she had hidden them—it was her own idea and so clever.

"You may make the personal search if you wish," she said sweetly. And then she was conducted to a small room and placed in the hands of a sharp eyed woman, who consulted with the official in low tones before she turned to Mrs. Freer.

"Will you please remove your hat, madam?" she asked courteously.

"Certainly," returned Eleanor, with a little hysterical laugh. "I suppose you believe I have diamonds concealed in my hair."

"I have heard of stranger cases," returned the woman grimly. "No, madam, you needn't take down your hair. I think I can locate them without."

She took the charming hat from Eleanor's shaking hands and held it under a strong drop light. Then she drew forth a pair of sharp scissors and deliberately snipped one of the green grapes from its stem, tore it open and pulled out a stuffing of cotton wool, from which dropped a glistening gem.

While Mrs. Freer suffered mild hysterics, the woman calmly denuded the hat of its green grapes, and from each one she produced a stone, which she laid in a tray. She counted them carefully and then called in the official.

"What do you make of them?" she asked.

He smiled broadly and nodded approval at Mrs. Freer. "Pretty clever trick, madam," he said, and she felt a grain of comfort in the knowledge that her dishonesty was of high degree.

"How did you guess?" she faltered. "No guesswork about it," he said cheerfully. "The man who made your grapes—to order, wasn't it?—happened to be one of our spies; that's all."

He was examining the stones with a strong glass. Then he turned to Eleanor once more. "Why did you take pains to smuggle through false stones, madam?" he demanded.

"False?" she gasped. "Why, my husband paid $10,000 for them!"

"Then he was badly bitten. They're not worth $100."

It was at this moment that John Freer chose to arrive, admitted by the magic of his card and coin of the republic.

His sharp eyes took in the situation at a glance—his tearful wife, her denuded hat and the heap of imitation diamonds.

"Eleanor," he chided gently, "what did I warn you? Tell me what sort of trouble you're in that I may help you out of it."

She told him unreservedly, and he laughed when she had concluded—laughed heartlessly.

"False, you say? Yes, my dear, they are. The genuine diamonds came over with me a fortnight ago and were properly declared and the duty paid. Those I left with you were cheap imitations I ran out and purchased the very night before I sailed—after you had expressed your ideas regarding smuggling. Now you've had a taste of it how do you like trying to cheat your Uncle Sam? Unprofitable, eh?"

"It's perfectly horrid," sobbed Eleanor against his shoulder. "I feel so mean I don't know what to do, John!"

"Just don't do it again. Cut your morals on the straight," advised Freer kindly.

"I will hereafter. But"—sighing—"the way of the transgressor is hard—hard as diamonds, John."

"And as bitter as green grapes," added her husband.

"The Leaves of That Tree"
What the tree is, and how it came to grow, and the healing nature of its leaves, will be told Sunday morning in the sermon of Rev. Edward F. Reimer in the Presbyterian Church. A supply of booklets which tell the whole story has been ordered, and will be distributed to the congregation at the close of the service. People who are interested in the Bible, from any point of view, will find these booklets worth a second reading.

Spray For Codling Moth

A very extensive fruit grower of Sunbury, Pa., has written to Dr. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist, asking what he will recommend this spring in spraying for codling moth. This grower knows the importance of keeping in close touch with the Department of Agriculture to learn what is the latest and best. As a consequence his reply will prove of value to all persons growing apples, pears and quinces, which are liable to be infested with this pest which causes the fruit to be wormy. The answer of Professor Surface is as follows:

"Replying to your letter concerning the codling moth spray, I beg to say that we shall use one gallon and one quart of the concentrated lime-sulphur solution of the strength testing about 1.28 to 1.30 specific gravity in every fifty gallons of water. This is to take the place of the Bordeaux mixture."

"In addition to this we shall use two pounds of arsenate of lead. We shall spray once just after the blossoms fall, and again in about ten days or two weeks. Of course, no spraying while in bloom will be recommended at any time for anything. The latest we shall spray with the strong lime-sulphur for San Jose scale is up to the time when the first blossoms commence to expand."

How Late Can We Plant Trees
This is a question that is frequently asked of Prof. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist of Pennsylvania, notwithstanding the fact it is purely horticultural. As a result of his own extensive experience, he has given the following reply:

"The date for planting trees depends solely upon the conditions of the tree at the time it is planted. If it is truly dormant it can be planted at any time, and it will grow even though the planting may not be until midsummer. If, on the other hand, its buds have appeared, or its leaves have started to expand, it will be less likely to live, even though it should be planted very early. In planting trees on which the leaves have appeared, it is best to cut these back severely, and remove the advancing foliage, giving the tree opportunity to push forth more dormant buds after their roots have started."

"It is the custom for extensive nurserymen to keep trees in cool storage, and often shipments are made late from such trees. It is safe to plant them, even though it may be late in the year. The earliest trees should be the cherry. This is less liable to live if planted late than any other. The peach, on the other hand, can be planted very late, and if cut back severely will be in as good condition as though planted early."

"The greatest objection to the late planting of trees is that they are liable to have started growth late in the season, and are injured by being transplanted after the growth is started. The greatest objection to the late planting of dormant trees is that the growing season is thus shortened, and unless the growth is stimulated by good nitrogen fertilizer and cultivation this may be very feeble, and the tree may not gain strength enough to make it resistant to the destructive effects of the winter. Trees planted very late are quite liable to be weakly and easily winter killed. It is the feeble trees that are thus damaged. The greatest security against winter injury is a strong, vigorous growth of good, thick twigs and healthy buds well matured before the severe weather comes. Early planting, proper fertilization and cultivation are the best means of securing this. The first winter is often the hardest winter on the young trees.

"It must be admitted that the earlier in the spring all trees, bushes and shrubs are transplanted the better it will be to insure their starting right, and making a good growth during the summer. For this reason fall planting is coming more and more into favor, and is to be recommended," says Professor Surface, who practices this upon his premises in setting all kinds of fruit trees.

Privilege Lies This Way.

Look over any issue of The Gazette—note the deaths—think of the widows and orphans—recall the fortunes you have seen dwindle—ask yourself how sure you are of long life and how it will be with the helpless loved ones when you—the strong bread-winner—are gone.

Are you in health to-day? Then here is your duty—here is your privilege—get a Provident Endowment Policy and hold it and keep it alive as a sacred trust—and get it NOW. The act will be manly and long remembered.

Speak to me about this important matter. I will guide you.

ROYAL Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is more economical at its price than any other leavening agent, because of the superlative quality and absolute wholesomeness of the food it makes.

Mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocery stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to use in food. In England, France, Germany and some sections of the United States their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a dangerous mineral acid, and all physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

The label of alum baking powders must show the ingredients.

Sunday, April 30.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle preached today on the Resurrection, approaching the subject from another standpoint—the destruction of sheol, hades, the grave, the state of death. He considered a number of texts voicing his theme. He said:

Death is spoken of throughout the Bible as an enemy. Merely hymn-book theology presents it as a friend, an angel sent of God. Death is introduced to our attention in the Bible as the penalty for sin, with the distinct understanding that had Adam not transgressed the Divine commands he need not have died, nor ever have been cast out of his Eden home. St. Paul emphasizes the fact that death is the penalty of sin and that the resurrection of the dead will come to mankind as the result of the redemptive work of Christ. He says, "Since by man comes death, by man also comes the resurrection of the dead. For as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive; but every man in his own order," band or cohort (I Corinthians xv, 21-23).

As Genesis introduces death as a penalty for sin, Revelation concludes the great drama by pointing out Christ's victory and the destruction of sin and death, the release of all the members of Adam's family from his sentence and eventually the bringing of all the willing back to fellowship with God and to eternal life. Between these two extremes of Divine Revelation are the assurances of the Prophets and the words of Jesus and His Apostles explaining the processes of redemption and reconciliation. St. Paul summarizes these with the statement, "By one man's disobedience, sin entered into the world, and death as the result of sin, and thus death passed upon all men, because all are sinners. * * * As by one man's disobedience [the] many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall [the] many be made righteous" (Romans v, 12-19).

Death a Ravenous Monster
In the poetic language of Scripture death is symbolically represented as a great monster which has been swallowing up the human family, never satisfied. Millions on millions have already been devoured. Mankind in vain has looked for a Deliverer—for one able to vanquish death and to deliver the prisoners from the great prison-house of sheol, hades, the grave. This monster was granted permission to devour the race by Him Who created us, because we were unworthy of eternal life. Death, therefore, is backed by the mandate of the Almighty, and He cannot overthrow His own decision.

The Divine proposition is that whoever would meet the requirements of Justice against Adam and his race might purchase, or ransom, them, and have full right to deliver them from the prison-house, the tomb. For four thousand years there were promises looking forward to this great Messianic Deliverer, but only promises—nothing was accomplished. Finally, in due time, God sent forth His Son.

He says that "He came not to condemn the world (not to add to its condemnation, not to add to its sorrow or pain or trouble or hopelessness), but that the world through Him might be saved" from death—have life, perfect and everlasting, deliverance from the jaws of the monster and from his prison-house. But although more than eighteen centuries have since elapsed, the race is

QUICKLY CURES COUGHS, COLDS AND CATARRH

If you, dear reader, could spend an hour looking over a few of the thousands of testimonials that we have on file, you would not go on suffering from catarrh, that disgusting disease that will surely sap your vitality and weaken your entire system if allowed to continue.

You would have just as much faith in HYOMEI as we have, and we have so much confidence in its wonderful curative virtue that it is sold the country over under a positive guarantee to cure catarrh, croup, sore throat, coughs and colds or money back.

No stomach dosing when you breathe HYOMEI. Just pour a few drops of the liquid into the inhaler, and breathe it in.

It is mighty pleasant to use; it opens up those stuffed-up nostrils in two minutes, and makes your head feel as clear as a bell in a short time. Breathe HYOMEI and kill the catarrh germs. It's the only way to cure catarrh. It's the only way to get rid of that constant hawking, snuffling and spitting.

A complete HYOMEI outfit, which includes a bottle of HYOMEI and a hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs $1 at druggists everywhere or at F. W. Jordan's. If you already own a Hyomei inhaler you can get an extra bottle of HYOMEI for 50 cents.

"I Would Rather Save One Life Than Be a Millionaire"

So said the great specialist, Dr. Daniel G. Carey, founder of that marvelous medicine MARSH ROOT. "Upon receiving my first diploma allowing me to practice medicine, I registered a solemn vow,—to be as great a help to my fellow men as my talents would allow me to be. It is a source of great satisfaction to me to be able to look back over the sixty-nine years of my life, during which, over forty years have been spent in healing the sick, to be able to say truthfully that I have never yet failed to respond to the call of urgent necessity and that to each individual case, I have given the patient the best of my knowledge and ability, regardless of the question which bothers the majority of physicians,—will I ever get my money? Money has never been a consideration with me where human life was at stake." This is indeed the truest kind of philanthropy; it is too often the case that the saving of human life hangs upon the ability of the PAY for the doctor's service. Thrice blessed is he who can truthfully say, "Life is more precious than possession of gold."

During the extensive practice of this great specialist, he has experimented with the effect upon the human system of certain ROOTS and HERBS in the treatment of certain diseases and for the benefit of those who do not care to undergo a course of physician's attendance and treatment, this great healer has compounded a certain combination of ROOTS and HERBS for the treatment of kidney and bladder difficulties, into one great medicine which he has justly called MARSH ROOT. Countless pages might be written regarding the merits of this marvelous medicine, to which thousands of persons who are now living and enjoying perfect health which they owe to the use of this great remedy, can testify.

Read what this gentleman says:
The following is a statement given to Dr. Carey, in regard to the remarkable cure of A. B. Royse, formerly of Nebraska, and now residing at No. 361 Columbia Street, Elmira, N. Y.

I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble, and was so bad that I had given up all hope. I was induced to try a bottle of Dr. Carey's Marsh Root. To my surprise and satisfaction, I at once could see a change in my condition. I continued to use the valuable remedy and can now say that I am entirely cured. I am seventy-one years old and comparatively a well man, and cannot say too much for Dr. Carey's Marsh Root kidney and bladder cure. I can now sleep all night and rest well. Before I commenced taking Dr. Carey's Marsh Root, I was compelled to urinate several times during my sleeping hours, thanks to your remedy.

Signed, A. B. ROYSE.

of the Adamic death, will be destroyed in the Second Death. Thus Adamic Sin and Death will finally be completely routed and the prison-house of death be broken up. And Adam and his family, not willingly sinners, will all be set at liberty—restored to human perfection, as the earth will be brought to Edenic perfection.

"O Death, Where Is Thy Sting?"
Then will be brought to pass the Divine prophecy, "O, death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" (I Corinthians xv, 55).

We must notice when this is to be brought to pass. It is not now true. The sting of death is in us all, for, as the Apostle explains, Sin is the sting of death. And because all have been stung by sin, all are dying. It will require the entire Messianic Age to fully extract from humanity the virus, the sting, of sin by bringing mankind to perfection. Only as the sting of death is removed will the power of death relax, because it is a part of the Divine Law that "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Death now has its sting. But when that which is perfect shall have come, the sting will be gone, the imperfection and weakness will be gone, the cause for sin will also be gone.

Not now, but then, will be brought to pass the saying, "Oh Hades, where is thy victory?" Hades, sheol, the grave, has been having a victory over Adam's race for over sixty centuries. And its victory will not be entirely overturned until the Redeemer shall have delivered from the power of the grave the last member of the human family—for all of whom "He died, the Just for the unjust, to bring us back to God."

Thus, as the Apostle says, with the culmination of Christ's Kingdom, with the deliverance of all mankind from the power of Sin and Death, death will be swallowed up in victory. The Apostle probably quoted from Hosea xiii, 14, where we read, "I will ransom them from the power of the grave (sheol); I will redeem them from death; O death, I will be thy plagues (gradual destruction); O grave (sheol), I will be thy destruction; repentance shall be hid from mine eyes." The Almighty will never change or turn from this decision. Death and the grave, sheol, hades (the snail hell), are to be destroyed. Every member of Adam's race is to be delivered by Him Who redeems all.

Keys of Death and Hades

A key is a symbol of authority and symbolizes a legal power to open the prison-house and to release the prisoners. Adamic death has been a legal penalty upon our race—a just penalty. But although all shared the condemnation and weaknesses, God foresaw that some of the race, if granted the opportunity, would gladly return to loyalty to His laws. He has, therefore, made provision through Jesus for every member of the race, great and small, rich and poor. World-wide redemption will be provided and world-wide opportunity for the coming to a knowledge of the Truth and for being uplifted or resurrected will be afforded. The right or power to release mankind from the power of death and from the prison-house of the tomb, sheol, hades, the grave, is represented by the key in the hands of Messiah. He gained that key, that rightful authority to set us free from the grave, victory. And as the prisoners of the tomb are gradually released, the grave will be destroyed, will be no more.

The statement, death and hades were cast into the lake of fire, which is the Second Death, is merely another way of explaining to us that Adamic death, and the grave connected therewith, will be superseded by the Second Death. Any of the race who, by the close of the Mediatorial reign, will not have come up to perfection and will not have gotten entirely free from the power of sin and the tomb, will themselves be responsible for their wrong condition, their imperfection. The great Mediator will have done everything right, proper and necessary for all. Whoever then will come short of eternal life will himself only be to blame. And the trial time over, any not fully delivered, any still held by sin and death, will be willingly held, and all such will be turned over to the Second Death, destruction, symbolized by fire, from which there will be no recovery.

Let it be remembered that the Valley of Hinnom, outside of Jerusalem the earthly, where only the vile refuse was destroyed, will find its anti-type in the Second Death, symbolically represented as a lakes of fire outside the New Jerusalem. In it will be consumed utterly, completely, everything out of harmony with the Divine will.

The Wicked Returned to Sheol

In the New Testament, as we have seen, hades stands for the grave or state of death, which results from Adam's transgression; while Gehenna represents the Second Death, which will come only upon those who shall first have been delivered from the Adamic sentence, or shall have had at least a full opportunity for deliverance and who will manifest their love for sin more than for righteousness and who, therefore, will be sentenced to the Second Death.

But in the Old Testament there is no distinctive word used to represent the Second Death—the extinction which will be the penalty of personal, wilful transgression. To meet the difficulty the word sheol is used a second time. For instance, we read of some who will be wilfully wicked after enjoying a knowledge of the Truth—not merely inheritors of imperfection and weaknesses which they have not overcome, but intelligently wilful sinners—"The wicked shall be returned to sheol together with all people who forget God" (Psalm ix, 17). In our Common Version the prefix re is improperly omitted.

The "wicked" are only those who sin against light, knowledge and opportunity, and only those can be said to forget God who have once known Him—who have been brought to a knowledge of the Truth and turned from it. Truly, my hearers, the resurrection hope is the great theme of the Bible.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS

Do Not Endanger Life When a Bedford Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a cure is offered them? Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before dropsy sets in. Read this Bedford testimony:

Mrs. J. Harnishfager, 313 E. John Street, Bedford, Pa., says: "I willingly confirm all I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills when I publicly recommended them two years ago. The cure they effected in my family has been permanent. I have also taken this remedy, procuring my supply at John R. Dull's Drug Store, and it has given me great relief from backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. May 5-2t.

ATTACHING RUBBERS TO SHOES

After wearing rubbers a few times, they will become a little larger and fit loosely over the shoes. Sometimes the looseness is quite annoying and when walking in slush and muddy paths it is almost impossible to keep the rubbers on. This trouble I prevented by attaching the tongue and button as shown in the sketch. A tongue is fastened to the upper part of the back on each rubber and a button sewed on the back of each shoe. The tongue has a hole for the button.—From Popular Mechanics Magazine
